ABOUT THE COMPETITION

The Rotary Cartoon Awards (RCA) is an Australia-wide competition run by the National Cartoon Gallery. Currently in its 32nd year, the competition is open to all cartoonists, both professional and enthusiasts. The RCA are highly regarded by those in the industry and are supported by the Australian Cartoonists' Association. The aim of the Awards is to promote and support the cartooning industry and its artists. The RCA commenced in 1989 as an initiative of the Coffs City Rotary Club and together with valuable community support, the awards have successfully carved an identity as one of the most important cartoon awards in the country.

Known as the "Spiritual home of cartooning in Australia", The National Cartoon Gallery is a not-for-profit registered charity housed in an original underground WWII bunker in Coffs Harbour. Entries from the annual competition help grow the gallery's collection which is currently in excess of 23,500 - the largest private collection in Australia.

The gallery is currently undergoing a major transformation with a multi-million dollar extension underway and plans to create a permanent exhibition - The History of Australia As Seen Through the Eyes of Cartoonists. Once complete, the gallery will have a world-renowned attraction to continue to give Australian cartoonists a platform as well as a showcase of Australian cartooning history for generations to come.
